Partner Program Workshop & Networking Series

Succession Planning

Friday, November 8th, 2019
12:30 pm - 3:00 pm

1 Carrot Way
Ann Arbor, Michigan
Welcome to our first session of the Partner Program Workshop & Networking Series.

We are glad you were able to join us!

Your willingness to serve as leaders in your partner program ensures that those in your community who need food have access to it. In recognition of your hard work, leadership, and dedication to partnering with us in our mission to alleviate hunger and eliminate its causes in our community, Food Gatherers created this Partner Program Workshop & Networking Series for you. The goal of this series is to:

- Provide additional resources to partner program leaders,
- help strengthen your leadership by gaining additional knowledge,
- and to allow food pantry leaders to connect with other partner programs.

Rather than just facilitate networking opportunities, staff in the Community Food Programs Department decided to create a series that combined networking opportunities with a workshop session so our partner program leaders can engage with other agencies, learn best practices on a variety of topics, and share challenges and success strategies with one another.

Each session in the Partner Program Workshop & Networking Series will have a workshop theme, with this first session focused on Succession Planning, and will offer a networking lunch. The theme of this upcoming workshop was selected in response to feedback from some of our partner program leaders who expressed a need to network with other food pantries.

We hope you enjoy the next two hours of learning, networking, and lunch. And we welcome your feedback and input on topics for future sessions in the series, as well as general feedback on any topic.

If you have questions, concerns, or suggestions, you can reach out to the Community Food Programs Department.

It is our pleasure to have you here today!

WORKSHOP

Topic: Succession Planning

WORKSHOP ACTIVITY MATERIALS

A. Individual Brainstorming Activity

1. What is the history of your food program at your site? Think about when it started, who started it, does it look differently than it did in the past, etc...

_________________________________________________________________

2. Complete the Roles and Duties Handout (Column 1 and 2) while thinking about:

a. What are the main duties of running a pantry, food distribution or meal program? Try to think of everything (e.g. communication with Food Gatherers, training volunteers, receiving deliveries, set up, assisting clients, break down, etc..)

b. Who are all the people who play an important role in your food program. Think of everyone it takes to operate a food pantry, distribution or meal program. (e.g. volunteers, staff, church leaders, donors, etc..)
Who would carry out the responsibilities of running the pantry if you were to retire, get sick, or had to relocate? A succession plan can give clear direction to staff and volunteers concerning who will take over each responsibility in the event of leadership change, or if unexpected situations occur.

B. Partner Program Leaders Pair & Share Activity

Sometimes we are not left with any notice when someone leaves the job and sometimes we have 6 months notice. Either way, we are tasked with finding someone new to run the program. For this reason, we want to have an interim plan until we can find someone to permanently fill the role. It will be important for your agency to develop a small committee of people who can facilitate appointing an interim leader and finding a permanent solution.

Complete the following steps for this activity:

1. Attendees will pair with the person next to them

2. While in pairs, attendees discuss the following and write out your challenges on orange sticky notes, your successes on green sticky notes, and how to motivate others who we can pass the torch to lead on the blue sticky notes. NOTE: Each sticky note will only get one idea per sheet.
   a. (On an orange note:) What are some challenges to securing a back up food program coordinator (Think of emergency situations, interim leader, and securing a long-term leader)?

   b. (On a green note) What has worked for you in the past if you have had to plan for a new leader of your food program? What worked well in emergencies or finding an interim leader?

   c. (On a blue note) How do we get others to care about food security so they can step in to lead your mission of providing food to the community when the time comes?

3. Post up your sticky notes on the appropriate board

4. Group rejoins

C. Group Discussion

a. Pair like sticky notes and discuss challenges, successes and how to motivate others to care about the work we do!
D. Goal Setting Action Plan

We often don't know when we will need a new leader, but we know that eventually we will have to pass the torch on to the next generation! Let’s make a plan so we are ready for these temporary or permanent changes in the future.

Create a job description for a position called the Food Access Coordinator. Pretend that there is only one person available to do this job and write down a job description for this role.

Agency Information: What is the history of your agency and food program? What is your program's overall mission? What are the agency's goals?

Position Overview: A job summary highlights important details and provides a broad overview of the role and its associated responsibilities.

_________________________________________________________________

Job Responsibilities: Duties can be listed with bullet points for easier reading, but as mentioned earlier, try to keep this section concise by grouping responsibilities into main categories rather than listing every task with exact detail. (e.g. food safety responsibilities, volunteer management responsibilities, etc..)

Primary Objectives: The clearer these are, the more likely it is that goals will be reached. Plus, having clearly defined objectives provides a concrete way to measure performance.
